Problem Definition

As modern home interiors gain popularity, individuals face a challenge in navigating the overwhelming array of design options, furniture choices, and decor elements. Often, the process of gathering inspiration, sourcing products, and selecting professional designers is time-consuming and fragmented across multiple platforms. This makes it difficult for users to make well-informed decisions based on cost, style, and functionality.

Additionally, users seeking design inspiration or products often struggle with:

- Lack of Centralization: There is no single platform that offers comprehensive home interior solutions, requiring users to visit multiple websites to compare designs, prices, and products.
- Difficulty in Visualizing Designs: Users find it hard to envision how certain furniture, accessories, or styles would fit together in their space.

- Inefficient Product Browsing: Finding specific products or design elements that match a desired style or budget is often a tedious process.
- Limited Access to Professionals: Users interested in hiring professional interior designers struggle to find reliable information about designer profiles, rates, and experience.

These issues highlight the need for a centralized platform that integrates design inspiration, product browsing, and professional interior designer profiles, allowing users to explore and make informed decisions in one place..
